School spirit is the soul of all life at R-B. Proudly singing the school song, hopefully cheering the teams and respectfully walking around the school seal are first evidences of spirit. The mood of industrious competition affects the bustling Bundle Drive, the well-planned Sharclub and Hi-Y dances, and the unique Homecoming floats. Striving to complete an extra-credit project, to raise money through bake sales, and to do work despite the flu, displays the students' enthusiasm. Then the hustle and haste ceases, as R-B-ites reflect devotion during Thanksgiving and Easter services, diligence throughout the NE-NW convention, and finally wisdom at graduation. Each student and teacher, each team and cheer, and each smile and laugh, truly . . . "That's the spirit of R-B."

Dear Pen,
This year has been wonderful thanks to all the sweet kids I've met. I too

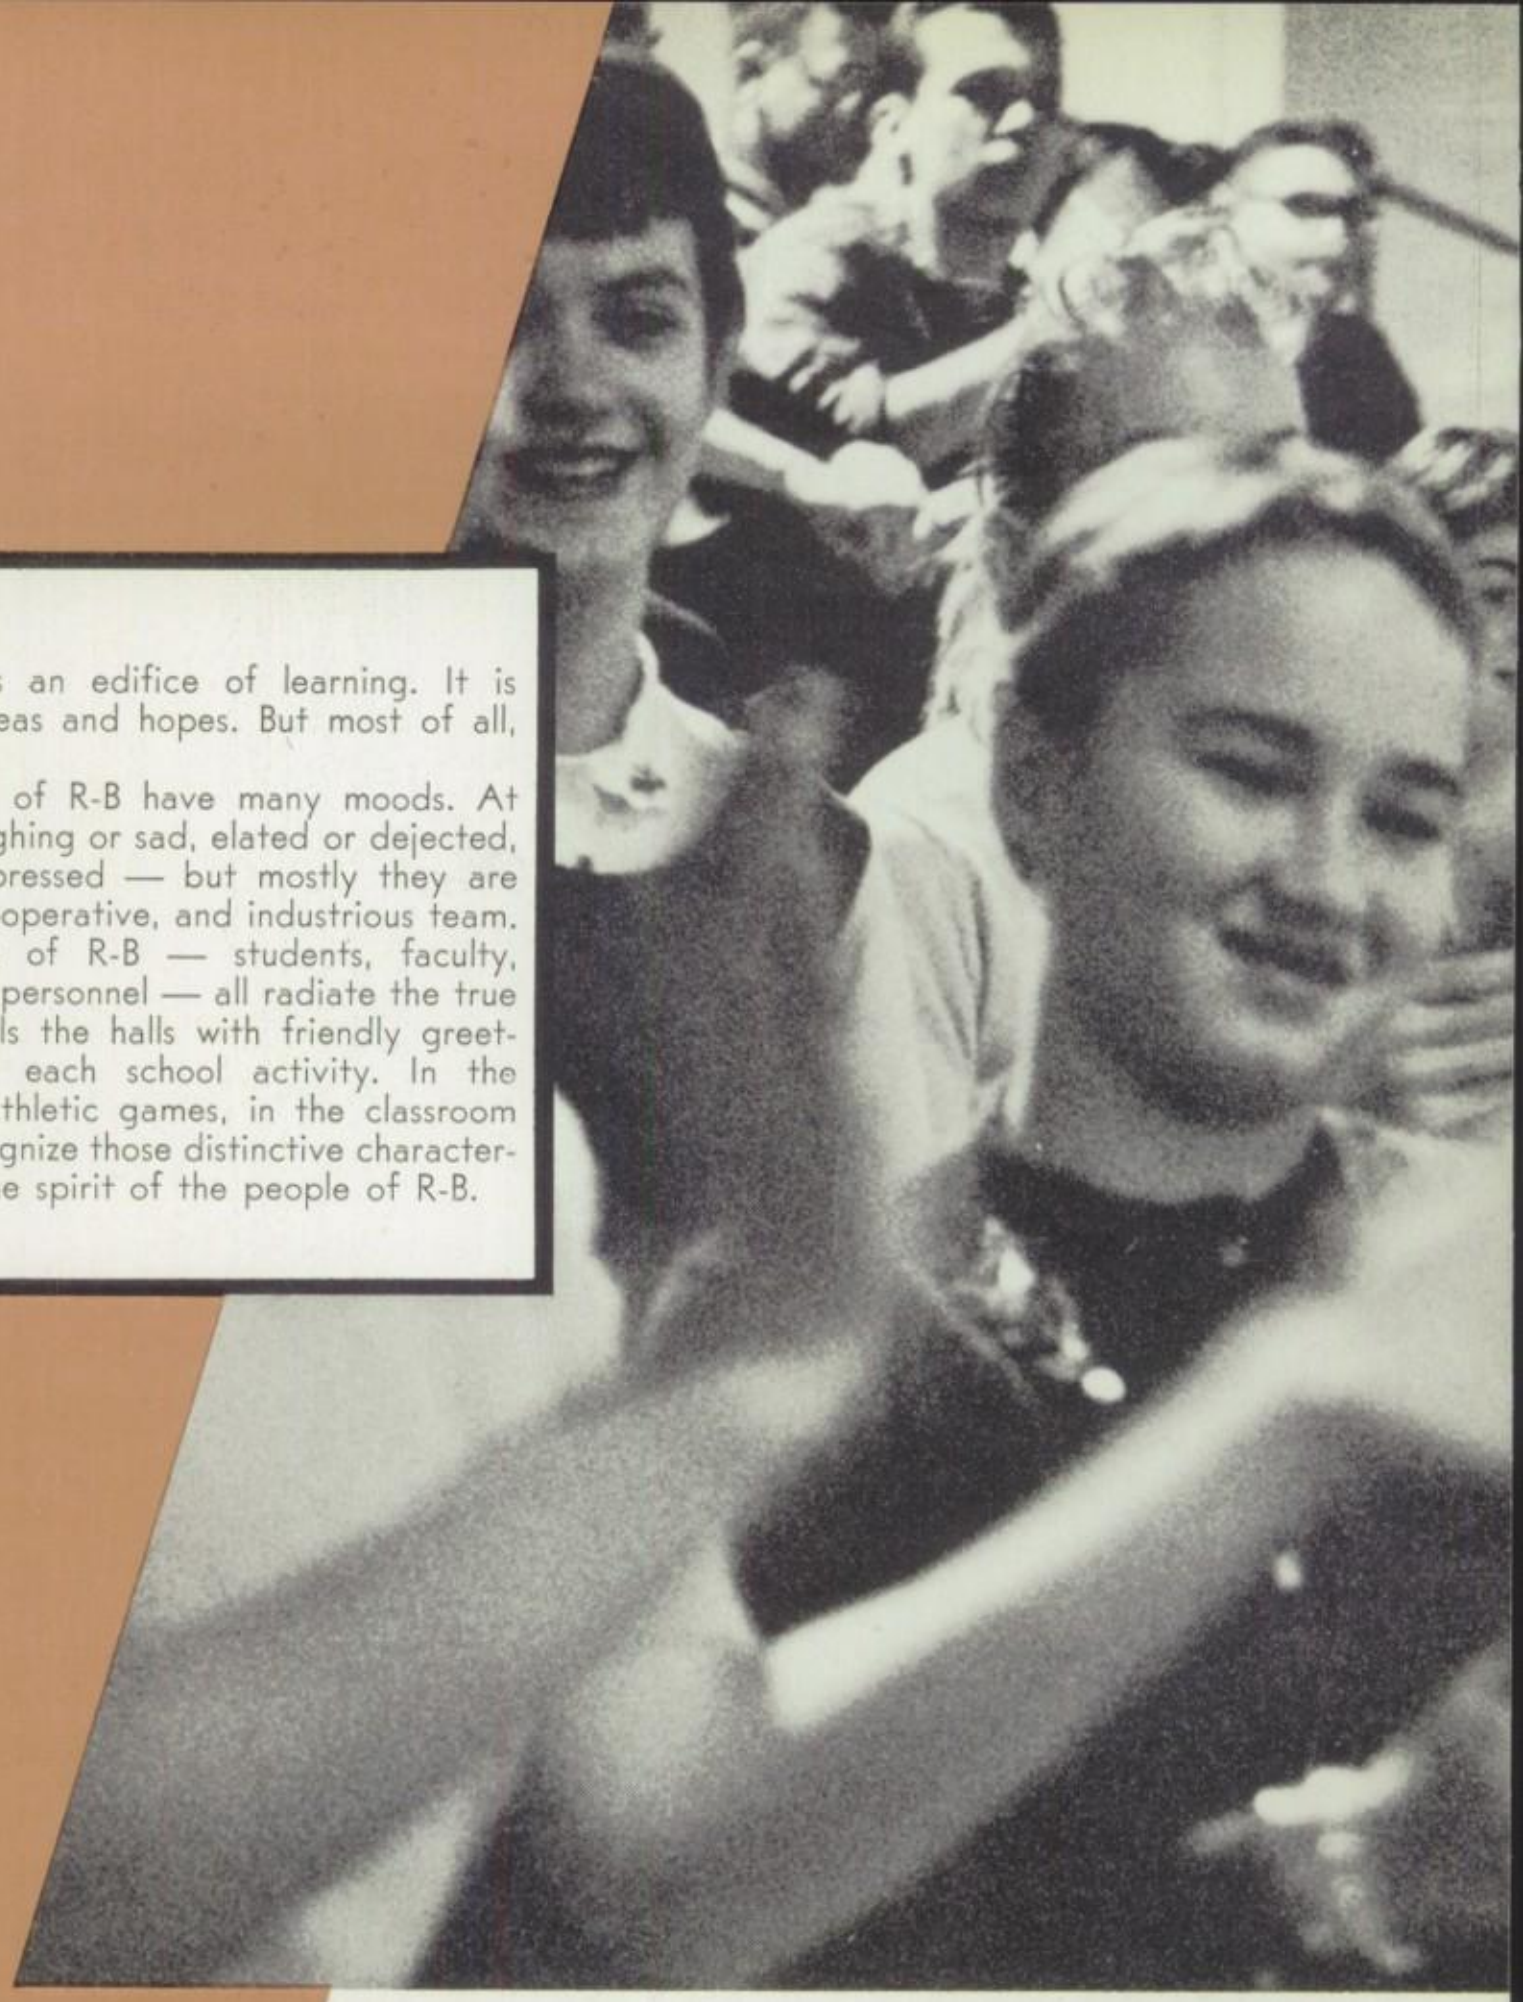
The school building

We at R-B are fortunate to have one of the finest school buildings in this area. Besides providing the facilities for acquiring an education, R-B also possesses many of the "luxuries" of a school — structural beauty, modern equipment, cheerful rooms, pleasant surroundings, etc. Another benefit is having enough space. The builders of our school were farsighted enough to look to the future, when a growing population might make the school over-crowded. We now even have provisions for another addition, so that classes in the near future will not be plagued by a situation of overcrowdedness.

In years to come, we probably won't remember all the details about the school, but we will appreciate the fact that we had the opportunity to receive our education in such pleasant surroundings.

Truly, in the school building itself, we have reason enough to be proud of R-B.

stands as a symbol of our ideals



A school is an edifice of learning. It is a storehouse of ideas and hopes. But most of all, a school is people.

The people of R-B have many moods. At times, they are laughing or sad, elated or dejected, enthusiastic or depressed — but mostly they are a spirited, loyal, cooperative, and industrious team.

The people of R-B — students, faculty, and administrative personnel — all radiate the true spirit of R-B. It fills the halls with friendly greeting. It permeates each school activity. In the cafeteria, at the athletic games, in the classroom — anyone can recognize those distinctive characteristics that typify the spirit of the people of R-B.

In Memoriam

When the death of Mr. Harry A. Bamford was announced last October, it came as a shock to all. Mr. Bamford, who had so ably and willingly served on the Board of Education for ten years, was well liked by all who knew him. Being a devoted, active, and hard working individual, Mr. Bamford contributed immeasurably to the betterment of R-B. He recognized the need for and took a very active part in the promotion of the plans for the construction of the 1953 building addition. Elected to the position of president of the board in 1956, Mr. Bamford assumed the added duty of conducting all the board meetings.

In addition to his service on the school board, Mr. Bamford was also active in church and community affairs. His determination, energy, and drive would suggest a person considerably younger than his age of fifty-nine years at the time of his passing.

Helpful and friendly to all, Mr. Bamford was a man of outstanding character and of the highest standards. He certainly demonstrated his wisely chosen code of good character, conduct, courtesy, and cooperation. Truly, his passing was a great loss to all.

In November, Mr. Robert W. Murphy was elected to the position of president of the Board of Education at Riverside-Brookfield High School.

In addition to the usual problems and responsibilities confronting the members of the BOARD OF EDUCATION, this past year they were unexpectedly faced with the necessity of selecting a new president. Mr. Robert W. Murphy was chosen to complete the unexpired term of office created by the death of Mr. Harry A. Bamford.

The board was comprised of seven public spirited citizens who met the first Tuesday of every month to arrive at equitable solutions to the problems confronting the school. Among other duties were those of proposing improvements for the school, providing for needed classroom space, hiring teachers of outstanding ability, and balancing R-B's complicated budget. Theirs was the final responsibility in all that affected R-B. It was an endless job with little glory, but by unselfishly sacrificing their time and efforts, the board members endeavored to exemplify R-B as a school of exceptionally fine quality.

R-B's leaders made major decisions

Mr. Frank Spachman, Jr., Mr. Richard E. Eldred, Mrs. Rigmor Kracht, Mr. George W. Glaser, Mr. Robert H. Perry, Mr. Raymond Oleksy, and Mr. Robert W. Murphy aided the community by serving on the Board of Education.

When the game ends, the crowds have gone home, and the stadium is quiet, school spirit exists as truly as it did at the height of the frenzied cheering. The spirit of a school is the allegiance of the students and faculty to a common set of values. It is an intangible, but real and enduring quality that makes one school different from another.

The spirit of R-B, as we see it, is a striving for excellence, and a concern that the methods of this striving be honest, friendly, and scientific. Whether the activity is in the classroom, the athletic arena, the creative arts, or the social life of the school, the spirit of excelling . . . of making the best possible effort . . . is a characteristic of the people of this school.

It is our hope that you will add strength to this spirit while you are in school, and that you will carry into your adult life the quality of the spirit of R-B.

for the school

Dr. Brown, center, is seen conferring in his office with Mr. Johnson, the business manager of R-B. Miss Larson, Dr. Brown's secretary, is seated in the foreground ready to take dictation.

Faculty

La Rue G. Thompson, dean of boys; B.A., M.A., University of Illinois.

Mr. Thompson has now completed twenty-one years as an outstanding faculty member. He was born in Hillsboro, Illinois, and attended the community high school there. His first job was in Gilmore, Illinois, where he worked for one year. Then he came to R-B as a teacher and in 1944 was promoted to the position of Dean of Boys. He is a resident of Brookfield and is the father of two children, one of whom attends R-B.

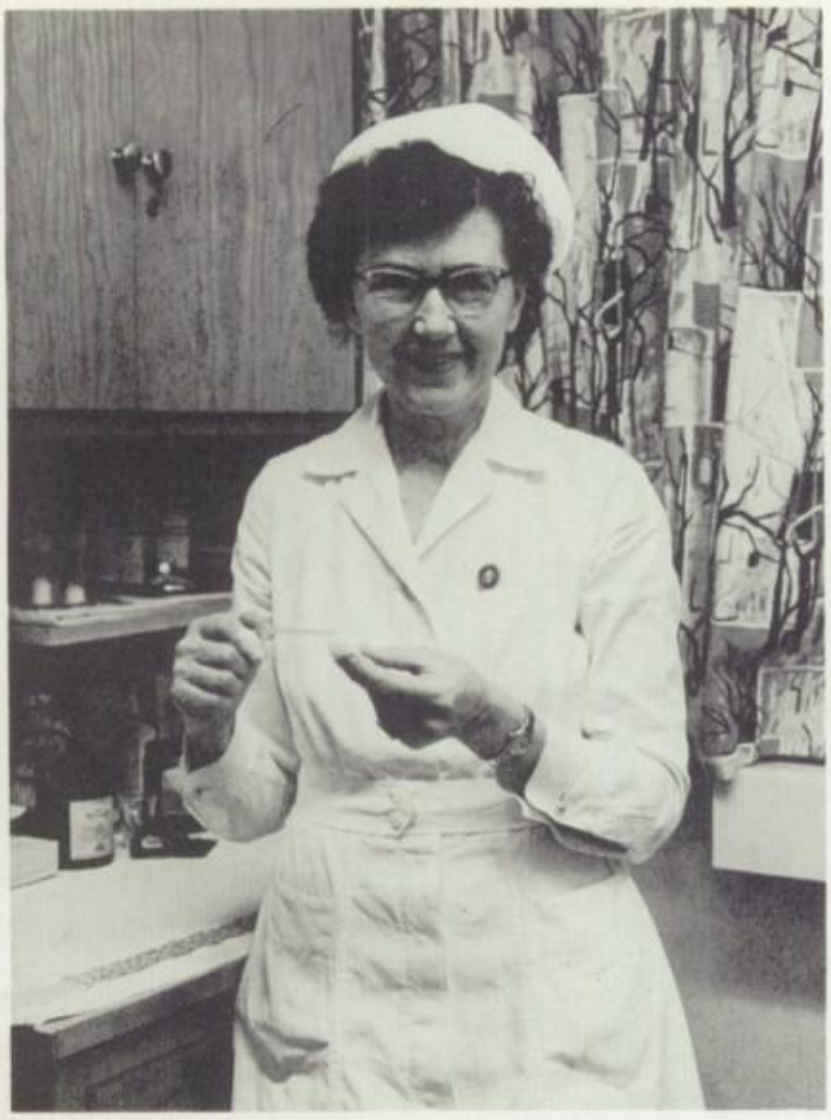
As dean, he is responsible for the attendance and discipline of each male student. In addition, he sponsors honor study halls and School Council.

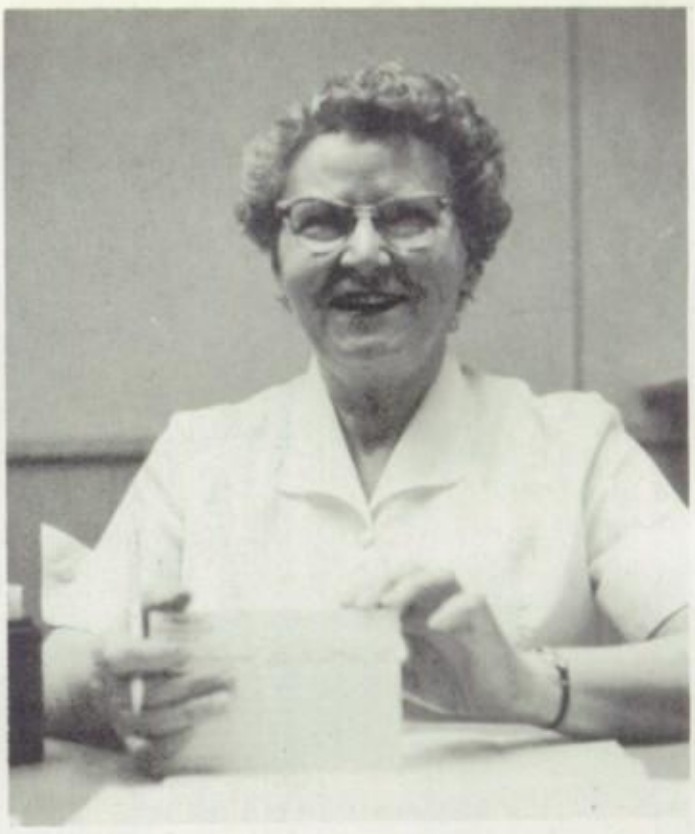
Deans offered guidance to students

Edna A. Michael, dean of girls; B. Mus., Chicago-Bush Conservatory of Music; B.A., M.A., University of Ill.

Miss Michael was born in Muncie, Illinois, where she attended Oakwood Township High School. It was here that she took her first teaching position. She came to R-B as Dean of Girls and now resides in Riverside. Miss Michael has a keen interest in music and helped to take over the band while Mr. Collins, the bandmaster, was absent.

As dean, Miss Michael takes care of the discipline and attendance of the girls of R-B. She is also chairman of the personnel staff, the all-important counselors of R-B. She has endeared herself to the girls of R-B through her sponsorship of Sharclub and Beceus, two all-girl service clubs.





Above is Miss L. Ziller, cafeteria director, who planned nutritious and appetizing meals for students and faculty.

The duties of a nurse are many and varied. Miss Blanche Suchy is head of the health department and sponsor of F.N.A.

Cooperative office personnel

Taking care of the school's general business and selling supplies are among the duties of the secretaries. They are: Mrs. Woodcock, Miss Stolfa, Mrs. Arnold, Mrs. Bartlett, Miss Wolf, Miss Aldrich.
At right is Miss Larson, who is secretary to Dr. Brown and to the Board of Education.

The COOKS AND CUSTODIANS were an invaluabe part of the school life at R-B this year. Everyday, whether directly or indirectly, they helped everyone at R-B.

Primarily their duties were to serve lunches and to make the school a cleaner, healthier place.

Custodians also cheerfully performed extra duties such as giving aid when a locker stuck or helping out with dance preparations. In general, they helped to make the school function smoothly.

Activities

Senior year, that magic year so often "pre-lived," became a reality to the class of 1958. They met its challenge and took senior status and responsibility in their stride. Senior determination and hard work won the Bundle Drive; senior leadership led R-B's student through another successful year; senior spirit kept them yelling loudest at pep assemblies. Then came final exams and final days leading to the climax—graduation. Some received their diplomas with beaming faces, others with a hint of tears, but all with an eager thought to the future and a satisfied look at the past.

Worthy seniors received rewards

One of the goals of every senior was to become a member of the NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY. The members were chosen by the faculty on the basis of high scholarship, good character, leadership, and school service. For those so honored, it was a reward for four years of hard work and marked one of the highlights of their high school days.

Valedictorians Judi Hancur and Henrietta Bartizal and Salutatorian Marilyn Tope exchange mutual congratulations.

Juniors

"Atoms, H^2O, combined oxygen" . . . "Oh no, not scrambled eggs again!" . . . "What's 'Top Secret' about the junior council dance?" . . . "White Books + bake sales = the prom."

This past year's junior class worked ambitiously in preparation for the prom. The May event combined Lou Breeze's music with the atmosphere of the Edgewater Beach Hotel. Publishing a student directory, "The Bulldog White Book," and selling stationery were among the projects undertaken to raise money. Tempting hungry students with bakery and organizing a white elephant sale also contributed funds towards the memorable night.

Of course, studies were prominent through the year. Chemistry held many new wonders with the students showing their interest through special projects. Facts and further knowledge of our country were brought to the students through American history. Combined physical education classes produced sore feet and aching muscles as students tried to outdo each other at volleyball and social dancing.

Exuberance was not only incorporated in work but also in pleasure, which they proved by sponsoring successful dances. Visiting the sparkling city of Washington, D. C., the bustling city of New York, and quaint Jamestown, highlighted a trip to the East.

"Disect?" . . . "Bisect?" . . . "I just can't understand Caesar!" "Your change, sir" . . . achieving prominence in sports.

The sophomores were known for their eager enthusiasm, school spirit, and ability to work hard. Energetically, they planned and decorated for their Council dance, "Somebody Goofed," R-B's first Bermuda dance. They also struggled through Julius Caesar and Silas Marner in their English literature classes.

Twenty-two students were elected to School Council, and five girls obtained Shar-club Senate positions. A variety of extracurricular activities also held the interest of R-B's largest class.

Sophomore boys entered competitive sports with vigor and during the football and basketball seasons were cheered on by the frosh-soph cheerleaders. As the teams worked on the field or the court, fifty sophomore Beceus girls performed their tasks in the refreshment booths.

The sophomores gained a name and place for themselves at R-B by displaying their endless spirit and ability.

Freshmen

"How do I get to the nurse's office?" . . . "My locker won't open." . . . "Lyceum? Split lunch? What are they?" . . . "Do we have to wear those awful tank suits?"

It was a struggle; but after the first few weeks of orientation, the eager freshmen finally settled down to a new way of life — a life made up of projects, exams, oral reports, endless homework, dances, new friends, football and basketball games, and activities galore.

The first milestone of the year for the class was the electing of eighteen representatives to School Council. As the months passed, the boys went out for the various sports and joined the teams, while the girls enjoyed active participation in G.A.A. In January came the initiation of fifty girls into Beceus, followed in the spring by the election of five outstanding girls to the Sharclub Senate. For the enthusiastic freshmen, elated over their successful bouts with Great Expectations, the Illinois constitution test, and algebraic equations, it was a year packed with hard work and unforgettable fun.

Leading the freshman class through their first activity-filled year were Vice-president Sandy Kanak, Secretary Diane Pisha, Business Manager Cliff Gramer, Treasurer Wendy Cookingham, and President Ladd Strnad.

Extracurricular activities provided experiences which will long be remembered by all R-B-ites. The spirit of R-B at work and play was everywhere: from Masque and Wig rehearsals lasting far into the night, to the Big and Little Sister Picnic.

Sports played an integral part in the activities of R-B. Boys spent many hours practicing for forthcoming games, meets, and matches. Meanwhile, the girls were busy at bowling, archery, and volleyball, earning G.A.A. points.

Through diverse extracurricular activities, R-B-ites were able to supplement their academic background and expand their school life.

Ruth Zierfuss and Sherri Peterson prepare popcorn for all the hungry spectators.

Frozen hands . . . running to catch a peek at the game . . . "I wish they'd give me even change just once" . . . "You'll find the popcorn at the south refreshment booth" . . . "Where is the hot water for the weiners?"

Reliability, character, and cooperativeness were all taken into consideration when the teachers carefully selected the fifty members of BECEUS. During the latter half of their freshman year and their entire sophomore year, these girls cheerfully extended service at such athletic events as football and basketball. The club contributed its five per cent profit made on all sales toward a school gift and also provided a brightly decorated Christmas tree for the main hall. The initiation tea in January was the club's first social gathering of the year, at which the retiring members officially accepted their successors into the club.

Working together

"Sharclub will have a tough time beating our dance this year" . . . promoting clean speech, sports, scholarship, and living . . . "Sign up for the Thanksgiving service in room 267" . . . "Where's the palm for this side of the stage?"

By increasing their enrollment to one hundred members this year, HI-Y has doubled its outlets for creating and extending higher Christian standards throughout the school and community. Under the direction of Mr. Ellingson, the junior and senior boys carefully planned readings and prayers for Thanksgiving and Easter services. They also offered their assistance in making the Newcomers' Party an enjoyable afternoon to promote friendship among the students. The boys again excelled in presenting an exciting yule-tide dance, entitled "Fantasy in Frost," donating the proceeds to a favorite charity. The decorations were exceptionally original, giving the dancers a dwarfed effect.

Mrs. I. Broe and Kristin Linn supply the library showcase with helpful suggestions that will aid students in selecting reading material.

Elaine Danek and Sherri Spiering expertly shelve newly purchased books.

"You might find it under Roman History" . . . "I surely enjoy collecting the fines" . . . planning a menu for the next pot-luck dinner.

The LIBRARY AIDES devoted their study halls to extend their knowledge of the library and to instruct fellow students in the care and use of books. The girls helped arrange attractive displays to enhance the atmosphere of the library and kept the reading material in proper order. The twenty members were picked by Mrs. Broe for their genuine interest in school and their ability to work with others. Social activities included entertaining their mothers at an annual tea, pot-luck dinners, a Christmas party, and a picnic.

Their thoughtful consideration

"Follow me right down this aisle, sir" . . . "The seat to your left, madam" . . . "The program will begin in a few minutes."

The USHER CLUB, under the guidance of the sponsor, Miss Neiderberger, and the co-sponsors, Miss Casperson and Mrs. Heller, cheerfully and in good faith carried out its responsibilities. These ranged from handing out programs during various school plays, special lyceums, and the band concerts, to assisting in the final commencement exercises.

Diligent, interested junior and senior girls were the only ones eligible to participate in the activities of the organization.

Throughout the school year the willing spirit of these girls was appreciated by the entire student body.

Ushers Nancy Semrad and Lois Stoker lend a helping hand at a Masque and Wig play.

"Please keep off the playing surface" . . . Faithful sentinels guarding the hallowed seal . . . "The coat check is ten cents."

Royal blue "zibs" worn by the LETTERMEN were familiar to the rest of the student body as a symbol of leadership displayed by the members of this organization.

Having achieved their letter in a particular sport, the boys were eligible for membership into the club, which was sponsored by Mr. Kmieciak.

The responsibilities they so willingly and aptly took on consisted mainly of checking coats and hats at all home basketball games, keeping the crowds from walking on the playing floor, and making an accurate check on the behavior of the spectators.

The purpose of this worthwhile organization was to promote good relationships between conference schools and to project more sportsmanlike conduct and leadership into the student body.

Protective lettermen Merle Denker, Pete Kidera and Ray Peterson keep the bystanders off the playing floor with serious facial expressions of responsibility at a basketball game.

Skill and enthusiasm increased

Sue McHugh watches as Chuck Schander initiates Carol Weller and Judy Cookingham as new members of Guard Club.

"All right, kids, quit fooling around" . . . "Everyone in the pool in five minutes."

R-B's LIFE GUARD CLUB gave its services to help the school swimming program and to teach others to swim.

Any upperclassman who had passed the requirements of senior life-saving and could maintain a "C" average or better was eligible to join this club.

The club's activities included its formal and informal indoctrinations and the Guard Club dance held in the spring.

At the formal initiation, the new members were sworn in and the officers for the year were elected. They were as follows: President Merle Denker, Vice-president Judy Maxant, Treasurer John Ward, and Secretary Marilyn Tope. Mr. Perkins and Miss Culver were the club's sponsors.

sports interest

"Yea blue, yea white, yea team, let's fight!" . . . "Come on, fellas, get that ball!"

Promoting school spirit at the games, the PEP CLUB was an important addition to R-B.

Its 100 members occupied a special seating section at games and wore white blouses to distinguish themselves from the other spectators. Membership included an equal number of girls from each class.

The club's pep and enthusiasm increased school spirit, and their cheers spurred our teams on to victory.

At the meetings on Thursdays, Miss Rhind, the sponsor, explained the cheers, and the members discussed the club's activities for the year.

Senior officers were President, Carol Konecny; Vice-president, Jill Schreiber; and Secretary, Barbara Collins.

Organized to assist teachers in the use of audio-visual materials, the twenty MOVIE OPERATORS transported film projectors and sound apparatus from room to room, helping to further education through movies. They also showed movies in the Little Theater on various subjects ranging from The Fundamentals of Volleyball to Great Expectations. Each day, these boys relinquished their time for the benefit of others.

"The end floodlight has burned out!" . . . raising the curtains . . . "What happened to the sound effects?" . . . changing the scenery quickly.

R-B's STAGE ENGINEERS consisted of nine boys under the direction of Mr. Schaefer. The group set up props, operated the lights and other mechanical devices. In addition to using every kind of mechanical device imaginable, they had to have a knowledge of electricity and lighting and a desire to give up their time for this service. Unseen by the audience, these boys worked backstage to aid in making the plays and lyceums productions which were enjoyed by almost everyone.

JUNIOR RED CROSS is an organization designed completely for service to the less fortunate. The members constantly worked towards fulfilling their purpose by sending aid to needy people wherever disaster should strike.

The club is affiliated and works in cooperation with the American Red Cross.

Under the leadership of the new sponsors, Miss Landrus and Miss Pinkerton, projects such as gift boxes for disaster areas and beanbags used in veterans' hospitals were completed. The group also made Christmas stockings which helped to cheer children in various homes and hospitals during the holiday season. Money was raised through the after-school sale of bakery and taffy apples.

effort were reflected in projects

"The deadline is Friday." . . . "Who signed out that story?" . . . Promoting literary interest . . . "Which article do you like better?"

This past year a new organization, the SCOPE STAFF, entered into R-B's extra-curricular activities.

The goal of the staff was to promote literary interest. They accomplished this by publishing Scope, the magazine which was introduced in May. Scope included all types of student literary work, such as poetry, themes, and reports. The students submitted the pieces for consideration, and the staff discussed them. After much deliberation they chose the pieces most suited for publication. Those were then compiled into magazine form.

The staff, Mr. Gard, their sponsor, and the efforts and cooperation of the English department brought about the success of Scope.

Here Barbara Newell, Carol Anderson, Sue Logan, and Ellen Wettersten file some of the pieces which they have been discussing.

Frantically approaching a deadline . . . "Has anybody seen that football picture?" . . . "Fit your copy to the layout first" . . . "What senior pictures haven't been taken yet?"

As the year unfolded, the ROUSER STAFF energetically labored to compile an accurate and interesting record of the year at R-B. Headed by Judi Hancur and June Vodicka, the staff soon became acquainted with the production techniques of a good yearbook. Meeting during fourth hour and on Thursdays after school, the staff chose a theme early in the fall and then proceeded to expand and develop it until they had acquired a successful result.

The CLARION STAFF worked diligently this year to produce an interesting and informative newspaper. Although the staff was composed of the Journalism class the first semester, the advent of the second semester opened the staff to the whole school as an extracurricular activity. Miss Jeffries and the editors coordinated the ideas and led the staff toward the production of a successful newspaper. The members attended news meetings, including a press conference at station WGN. The staff also exchanged newspapers with other schools and incorporated those ideas into an exchange column.

The next issue of the CLARION demands the full attention of Editors Barb Bernard, Sue Logan, and Jack Brochmann, as they prepare the dummy to go to press.

"All lines learned by Friday." . . . "What happened to my third act costume?" . . . orders of coffee and sweet rolls on Saturday morning . . . "Someone forgot to lash the flats!"

The MASQUE AND WIG club stimulated interest in dramatics at R-B. The junior-senior drama club, directed by Mr. Cohen, presented two plays, giving the members experience in production as well as acting. Night of January Sixteenth, a courtroom drama, was presented in November. An unusual type of play, it opened new fields of endeavor to aspiring actors and actresses. The charm of this play lay in the fact that the witnesses sat with the spectators; and the jury was chosen from parents, teachers, and students in the audience. The end of the play was determined by the jury's decision.

The JESTERS club provided an outlet for the dramatic talents of freshmen and sophomores. The members learned fundamentals of acting through discussions, field trips and actual experience in the spring play which climaxed the year's activities. In preparation for this production given for the student body, Mr. Sanders diligently coached the actors, readying many for their dramatic debut. Not all members acted in the play but introduced themselves to the various phases of theatrical activities through working on publicity, scenery, and costumes.

Momentous Year

"The meeting will please come to order" . . . faithfully upholding the standards of the school . . . "All in favor signify by saying, 'Aye.' "

Working closely with the administration and striving constantly to serve the school, SCHOOL COUNCIL earned the respect of the entire student body and faculty. Meeting weekly, the 72 student representatives and seven faculty members tackled such projects as: inviting an American Indian to attend R-B in 1958-59; continuing the support of the Greek war orphan, Maria; and hosting seventy high schools at the Northeast-Northwest District of the Illinois Association of Student Councils convention on November 16, in which seven hundred students and fifty faculty members participated. The convention theme was "Unity With Diversity."

In February, "Know Your Council Week" and "Brotherhood Week" were observed simultaneously. The week was climaxed with a mock council assembly.

While serving as a sounding board for student reactions to school policies and events, Council also provided a fertile field for leadership training.

To all girls at R-B, whether it was working on the Bundle Drive, dance, Orphans' party, masquerade dinner, Bow Day, or Newcomers' party, SHARCLUB meant fun and activity. Every girl automatically became a member when she entered R-B.

In the spring the juniors, sophomores, and freshmen nominated ten girls from their respective classes. The entire assembly of girls voted into office five representatives from each class. This was the Sharclub Senate.

The governing body of Sharclub consisted of fifteen girls: five senior, junior, and sophomore girls. Organized into six committees, Senate members acted as chairmen. Any girl interested was able to apply for a sub-chairmanship.

Some of the objectives of Sharclub were to help girls with their problems, to encourage student participation, and to train girls to work together.

goal of friendship

Sharclub, working hand in hand with Hi-Y, helped to make the 1957 Bundle Drive a real success. They canvassed neighborhoods and brought in old clothes by the truckload. Over a ton was collected and packaged. The discarded clothes went to needy children all over the world.

The purpose of PRO MERITO, sponsored by Mrs. Hoppert, was to promote further interest in the background and culture of the Roman people and to create friendship among the Latin students.

In October the club entered a float in the Homecoming Parade, winning an honorable mention. The climax of the year was the Roman Banquet in April, when the members donned their togas and feasted on a meal fit for kings.

The members of the FRENCH CLUB, under the sponsorship of Miss Lorimer, strove for deeper insight and further knowledge of the people of France. Some of the various activities enjoyed by the members were: the French progressive dinner and the exotic visit to a French restaurant, the fellowship picnic for the Language Department, and the taffy apple sales.

A Canada excursion, which was to be undertaken for the first time this year during the Easter holidays, was completely discussed in a number of meetings. The excursion is to be promoted next year on the basis of plans formulated.

The SPANISH CLUB, sponsored by Mrs. Saunders, helped its members to appreciate Spanish people and language. Members also learned Spanish history, culture, and background by having guest speakers and films at the meetings, held on the first Tuesday of each month. In order to join, members had to be enrolled in a Spanish class or previously had to have taken a year of the language.

The club's special events included a trip to the Ice Follies, a trip to Halsted Street, and a delicious Mexican dinner. A tour to Mexico was offered to all second year Spanish students.

Throughout the year, the GERMAN CLUB members received a better understanding and enjoyment of the German language. The sponsor, Mr. Koncius, helped the club to fulfill its purpose of supplementing class work, sharing experiences, and developing an interest in the German people and language.

The club had various speakers, films, and games at their meetings on the first Tuesday of the month. Lines of "O Tannenbaum" were rehearsed as their contribution to the group singing at the Language Clubs' Christmas party. An annual picnic and a trip to the Museum of Science and Industry to see a German exhibit highlighted this year's program.

The FUTURE NURSES OF AMERICA, under the sponsorship of the school nurse, Miss Suchy, was open to any girl interested in nursing. The club's 44 members received a better picture of nursing as a career, as well as a greater interest in community and personal health.

The girls kept busy making cancer dressings, selling the blue and white pompoms waved at football games, visiting hospitals, and hearing guest speakers from the nursing professions.

The highlight of the year for F. N. A. girls who earned the necessary points was the pinning ceremony held in May.

Open to any student registered in a business education course, SCRIBBLERS hoped to create enthusiasm in the members and to further their knowledge of business.

Meeting on the third Tuesday of each month, the girls engaged in various activities. Some of them included serving a mother-daughter dinner, entertaining at the annual Christmas Party, submitting an entry in the Homecoming Parade, and listening to such guest speakers as Mr. Gard, head of our English Department, and Mrs. Paul Moser of the Moser Secretarial School.

Organized to further an interest in subjects relating to the study of biology, the BIOS LOGOS CLUB presented a variety of numerous educational programs for its members. These programs were presented through an assortment of informational films or by lecturers from different biological fields, such as a representative of the American Cancer Society, a veterinarian, a conservationist, and others, all giving up their time for these students.

Any student of biology with an average scholastic standing and an interest in the subject could share in the activities.

During the past year, the club provided for an honorary member. This was a member who has graduated from R-B and has chosen a field concerning biology for a vocation.

The BAND encouraged school spirit by playing for football games, pep assemblies, basketball games, and many other school and community activities. When Mr. Collins, the band director, became ill last fall, the band members didn't let the students of R-B down. They worked just as hard and long as always; needless to say, they did a fine job.

Since it was impossible to combine wind and string instruments into one orchestra because most students were taking five subjects, the STRING ENSEMBLE took the place of the entire orchestra.

Together, the band and string ensemble played for the Winter and Spring Concerts. Under the direction of Mr. Collins, groups and solos from both band and the strings took part in the district and state contests. They also participated in the West Suburban Conference Music Festival.

Musical strains

Singing their way through rehearsals . . . "Let's try your part once more, tenors."

Gaining musical skill and displaying their talents in vocal concerts, the CHOIR, BOYS' GLEE CLUB, and GIRLS' GLEE CLUB added music and enjoyment to R-B.

The purpose of the groups was to provide an opportunity for anyone interested in singing and learning more about music.

The director, Mr. Gilbert, planned and conducted the many programs in which the vocal groups appeared. These included the Thanksgiving, Easter, and Christmas concerts, grade school appearances, graduation and baccalaureate, and various others.

Also included in the vocal department were freshman girls' choruses and small ensembles. In the spring, all these groups performed together in the Spring Concert.

Unusual spirit, good coaching, and lots of hard work helped make the VARSITY FOOTBALL TEAM the success that it was. With co-captains Francis Musil and Bob Ucherek at the helm, R-B consistently provided their opponents with more than they had bargained for. Musil and Ucherek made the all-conference team, while Joe Andel, John Patterson, and Ryan Jorstad received honorable mention. The team was guided by the direction of Coaches Perkins, Halverson, and Kmieciak.

Coach Bernie Fleener's VARSITY BASKETBALL TEAM, displaying commendable spirit and drive throughout the season, played more juniors than any other team in the West Suburban Conference. Contributing their talents were the Chicago area's shortest regular varsity player, 5'4" Frank Pekarek, and Junior Rich Jarom, whose most outstanding exhibition of skill was given when he chalked up 29 points against LaGrange. Excitement reached a peak during the season when the cagers overpowered Wheaton in the last second and defeated Argo in an overtime. The enthusiastic R-B fans, encouraged by the squad's fighting spirit, turned out in large numbers at every game to support their team.

The JUNIOR VARSITY BASKETBALL TEAM demonstrated itself as a strong builder for next season's varsity team. Closing the door on a losing streak, the squad, under Coaches Bernie Fleener and Robert Luebben, finished the season with a greatly improved record.

"Drill, drill, drill" . . . free throw shots dropping into the basket . . . "Let's practice those lay-up shots."

Capturing third place honors in the Elmwood Park Tournament for Sophomores was a notable achievement of this year's FROSH-SOPH BASKETBALL TEAM. In addition, Coach George Napier's promising squad, filled with a tremendous never-say-die spirit and a real ability for working together, went on to finish the season with a creditable record. Even such disappointments as losing to Maine in an overtime and succumbing to Wheaton by two points failed to break their indomitable vigor and enthusiasm which increased as the season progressed. The cagers, making good use of these assets, rallied to defeat such conference teams as York and Hinsdale as well as chalking up several non-conference victories.

The FRESHMAN BASKETBALL TEAM under Coach Harold Boyd proved itself to be R-B's most successful basketball squad this season. The cagers, winning well over fifty per cent of their games, walked away with a record which demonstrated that they will make a strong frosh-soph squad next season.

Throughout the year, many special events were held, including the weiner roast, the swim show, "Kaleidoscope," pizza party, initiation tea, and the Father-Daughter Play Night. The main event, though, was the Mother-Daughter Award Banquet at which the members received their well-deserved awards. New members who had not received their pins at the initiation tea were given their pins at this time, and the newly-elected officers and managers were announced. The banquet provided a fitting climax for another fun-filled year in G.A.A.'s history at R-B.

"Now the proper way to handle a gun is . . ." . . . competing and earning awards . . . "A bull's-eye, good for you!" . . . learning basic safety rules . . . "Does anyone know what the results of the Postal Matches were?"

Members of the RIFLE CLUB strove toward the club's objective to promote better marksmanship through much practice. One of the most active clubs in school, the Rifle Club met to practice almost every day after school in the basement hallway between the girls' and boys' locker rooms. The club, now in its second year of existence, had its members competing in the National Postal Matches every month, and all the riflemen mastered the proper techniques necessary for safe shooting.

"Speed up your steps!" . . . "Now I'm sure you can run faster than that." . . . experiencing pre-game jitters . . . "Brr — it's cold out here!" . . . "Whew!! what a close race."

Driven on by the incentive to make R-B's TRACK TEAM one to remember, Mr. Barclay and the boys on the team worked diligently to attain this goal. The new varsity uniforms helped to improve spirits, and interest in track was aroused early in January when practice began. Track activities included various foot races, pole vaulting, high jumping, discus throwing, shot putting, and broad jumping.

In May, the Wet Suburban Conference meet was held at Maine, climaxing a season of hard work and practice.

Flashing spikes in a cloud of dust ... the electrifying crack of a bat ... "Take second!" ... full count, three and two.

After the fine performance of the 1957 squad, R-B's BASEBALL TEAM had a lot to live up to. In a strong conference, the teams were expected to place well in the standings. Frank Pekarek, Ryan Jorstad, and Joe Nogal were among the returning lettermen that the squad counted on. The team, coached by Mr. Boyd, faced a long season of 14 conference and 2 non-conference contests.

"Keep that arm straight." . . . "Fore" . . . watching the green.

Combining skill and good sportsmanship, the GOLF TEAM swung through the '58 season.

The matches were played on Mondays and Thursdays. Home matches were held at the Riverside Country Club, and practice at Timber Trails.

Try-outs for the team were held in the middle of March and conference matches began in April.

The varsity squad consisted of five boys and the frosh-soph squad had three boys. Mr. Luebben of the math department coached the teams.

Jim Keller, Allen Kasper, Frank Kolar industriously practice for the coming season.

"Lets have one big fight!" . . . pep and enthusiasm . . . blue sweaters, white pleated skirts.

An important part of all athletic events was the feminine charm provided by the CHEERLEADERS. These vivacious girls learned, presented, and led various cheers to arouse spirit.

Each summer the Boosters club sends two girls to the cheerleading clinic held at Illinois State Normal University, where they share ideas with other cheerleaders. This year, R-B's representatives, Sue Nerad and Linda Kocour, introduced several new cheers that they learned at the clinic.

During this past year R-B students carried tons of books and struggled through the ever present tests, but somehow always found time for pleasant hours of recreation. Throughout each school day busy students were everywhere, permeating the corridors and classrooms with the echo of footsteps and gay chatter. It was not an easy year; although industrious students spent innumerable hours hitting the books, they also took time out to enjoy numerous activities — jobs, athletic events of all sorts, club meetings, dating, Youth Center, dances, special projects, and field trips. It was a memory-filled year that most R-B students aren't likely to forget for a long time to come.

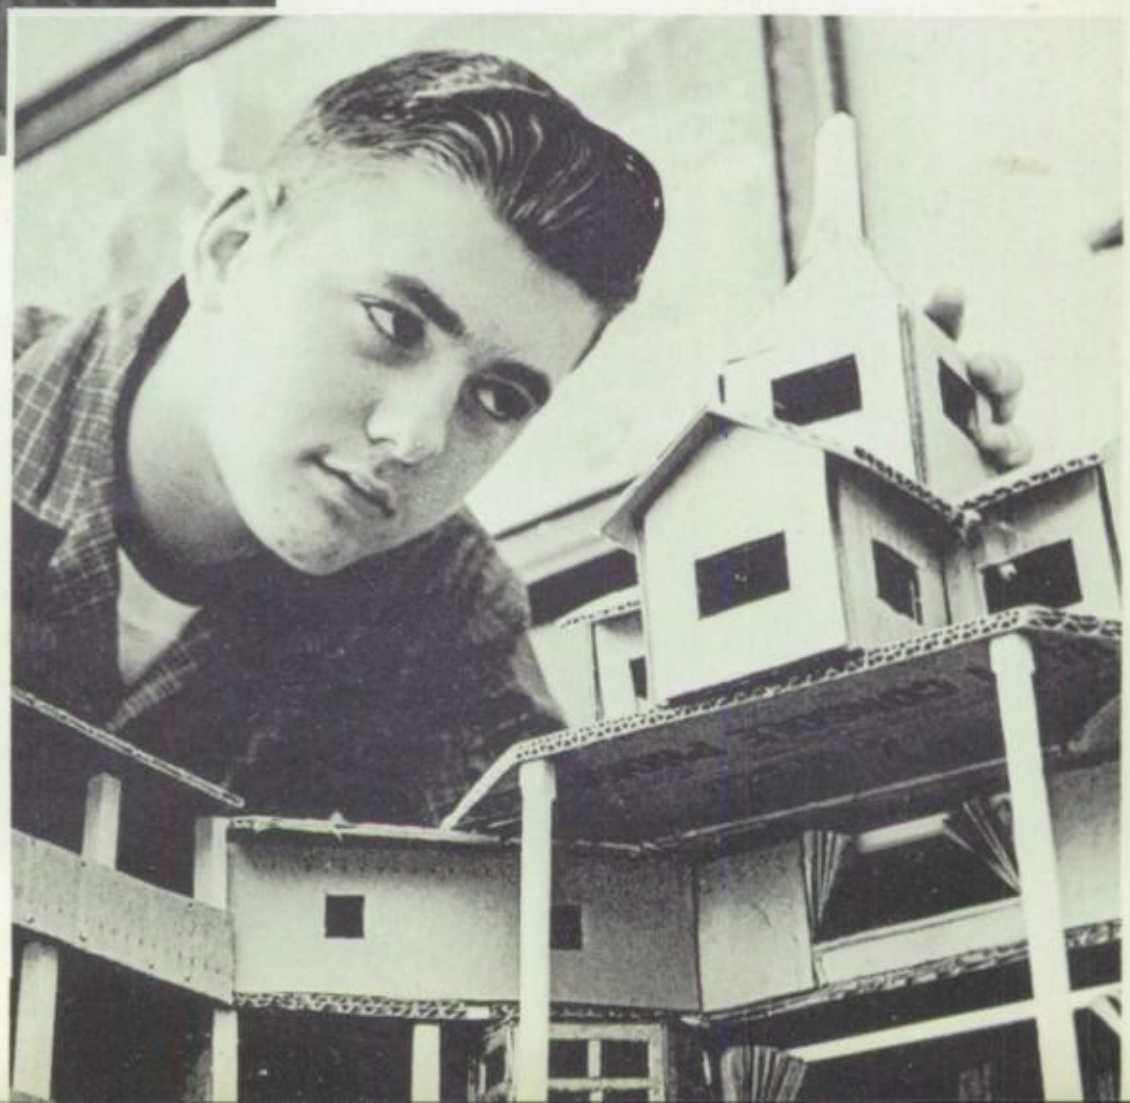
The spirit of knowledge prevailed

The study of a foreign or classical language also affords students an opportunity to learn about the customs and history of a people. Third-year Latin student Michael Mingus delivers a portion of Cicero's oration against Catiline.

Under the watchful eye of speech arts teacher, Mr. Cohen, Carl Mosetick does a pantomine as Donna Polivka and Ray Kole observe.

Ronald Milnarik, is seen viewing the model of the Globe Theater which he constructed in connection with his English studies.

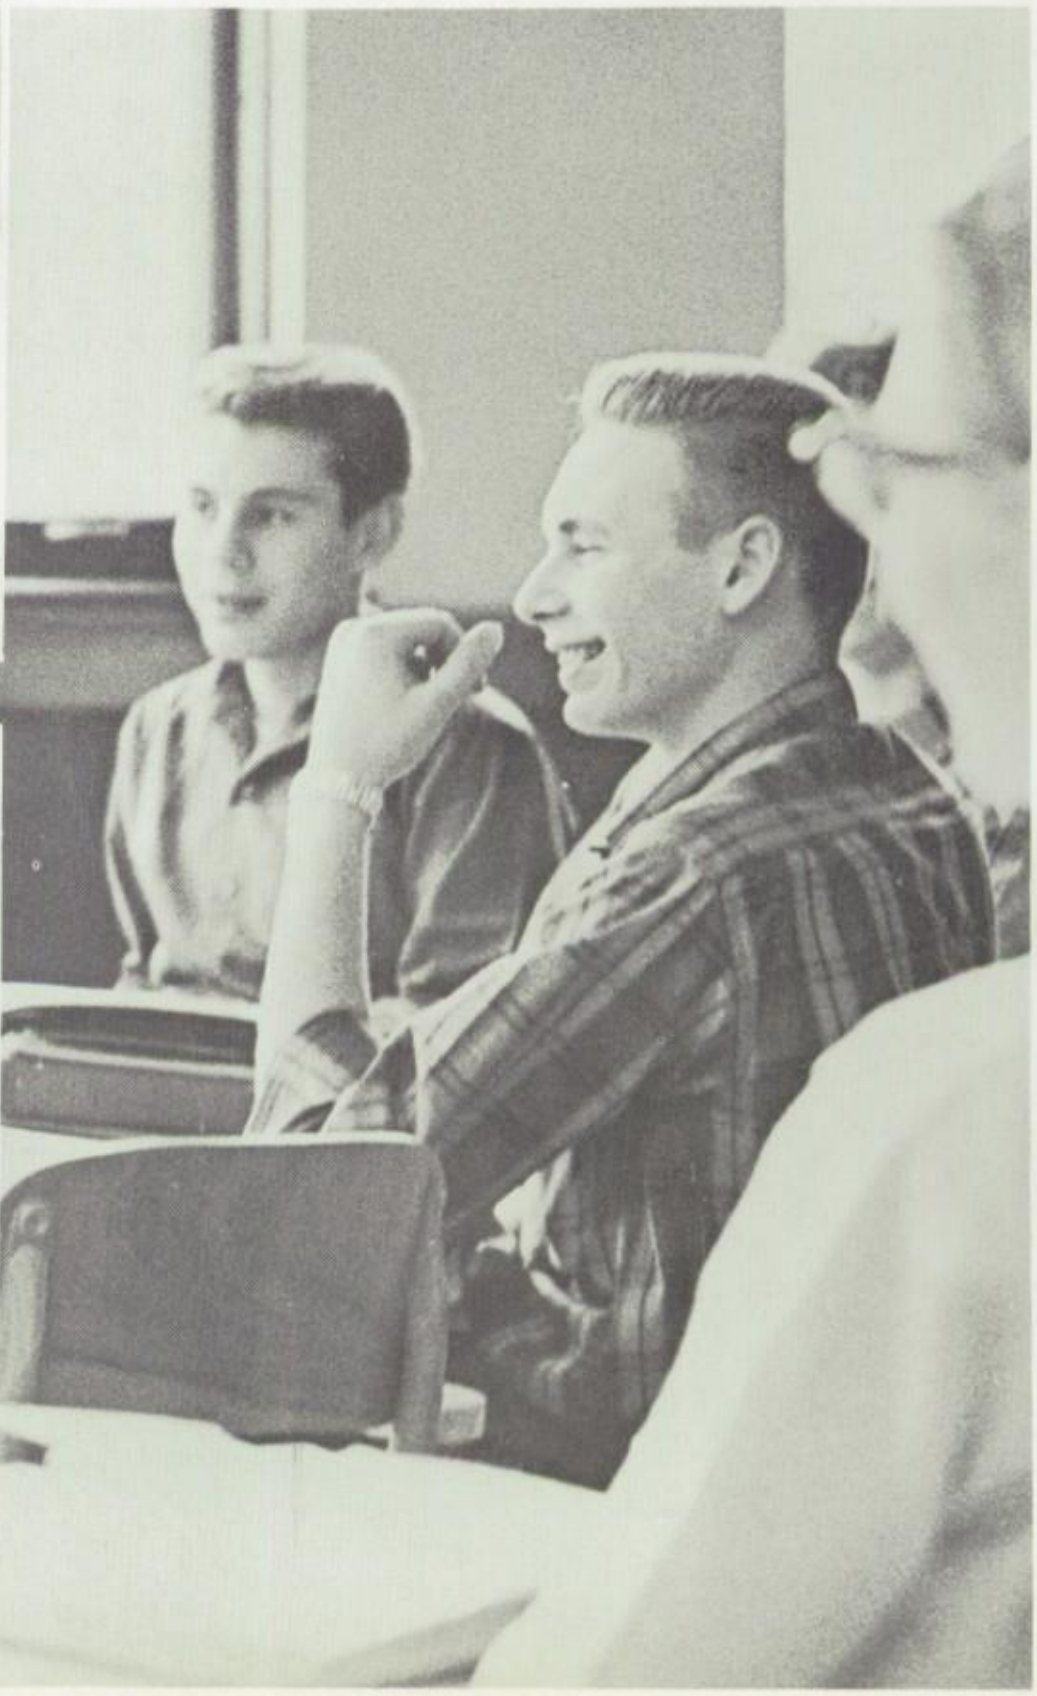


The classrooms of R-B—those rooms grown so very familiar to students during the course of this past year—were the focal points for a great many of the students' activities and interests. Each day as eager individuals entered these places of learning, they were greeted by smiling teachers, a hint of chalk dust, and a variety of familiar sights and sounds. Here students mastered new subject matter and left at the end of each hour with the satisfaction of having obtained a little more information to add to their steadily increasing store of knowledge.

Electives gave

Joy, fear, sorrow, apathy — all these emotions are present in the faces of students in the classroom. Their countenances reflect their reactions, their moods, their attitudes. A teacher is passing out tests, and expressions of fear mingle with those of self-assurance and indifference. Someone tells a clever joke, and broad grins and laughing eyes are everywhere. Some interesting subject matter is being covered in a lecture, and in the faces of the students is seen an eagerness to learn.

A look at the face of Gerry Czerwinski and David Baggs provides an inside view of a senior English class. Concentrating on the answer to a thought provoking question, referring to a paragraph in the textbook, watching the teacher as he gives the proper answer, laughing at a humorous remark — classroom activity and moods are reflected in their facial expressions.



experience in practical fields

Boys interested in manual skills derive a great deal of satisfaction from time spent in the various shops each day. In auto shop Dan Krisan carefully removes a carburetor.

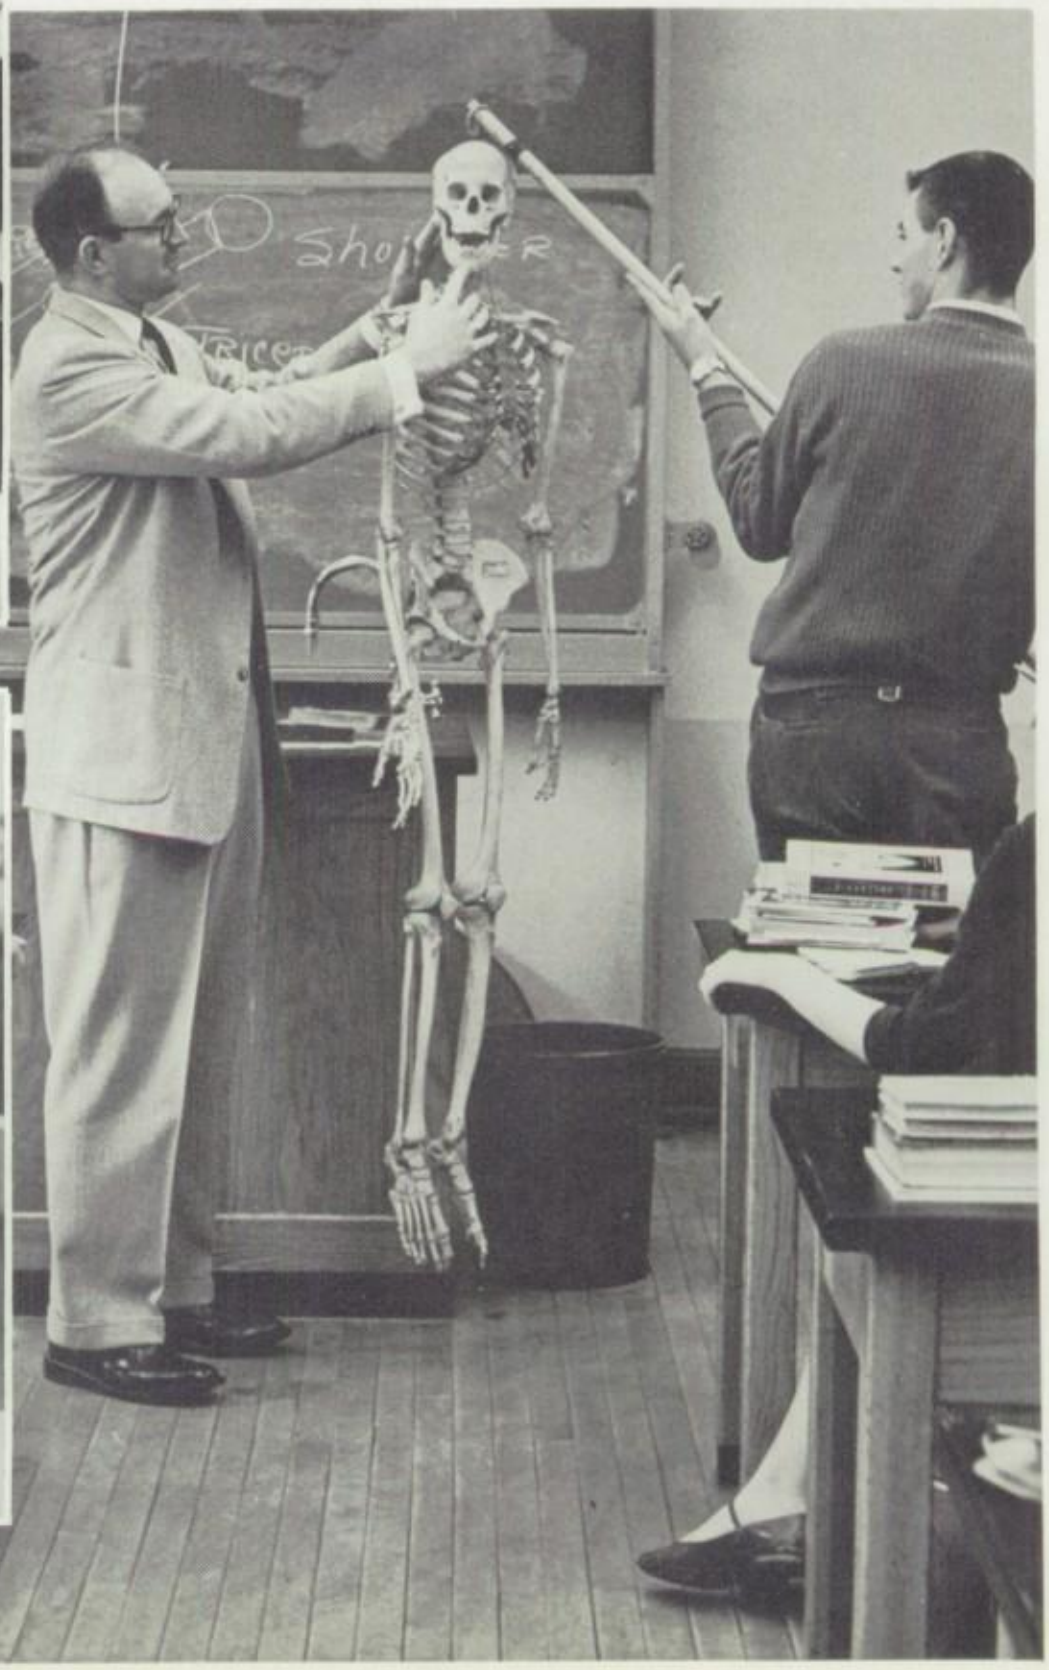
The work done in machine shop necessitates the mastering of many electrical tools. Dave Hlavacek skillfully works the lathe.

Working on cars is a chief interest of many boys. Roger Coverly is seen removing the pan from underneath the car in auto shop.

The classroom

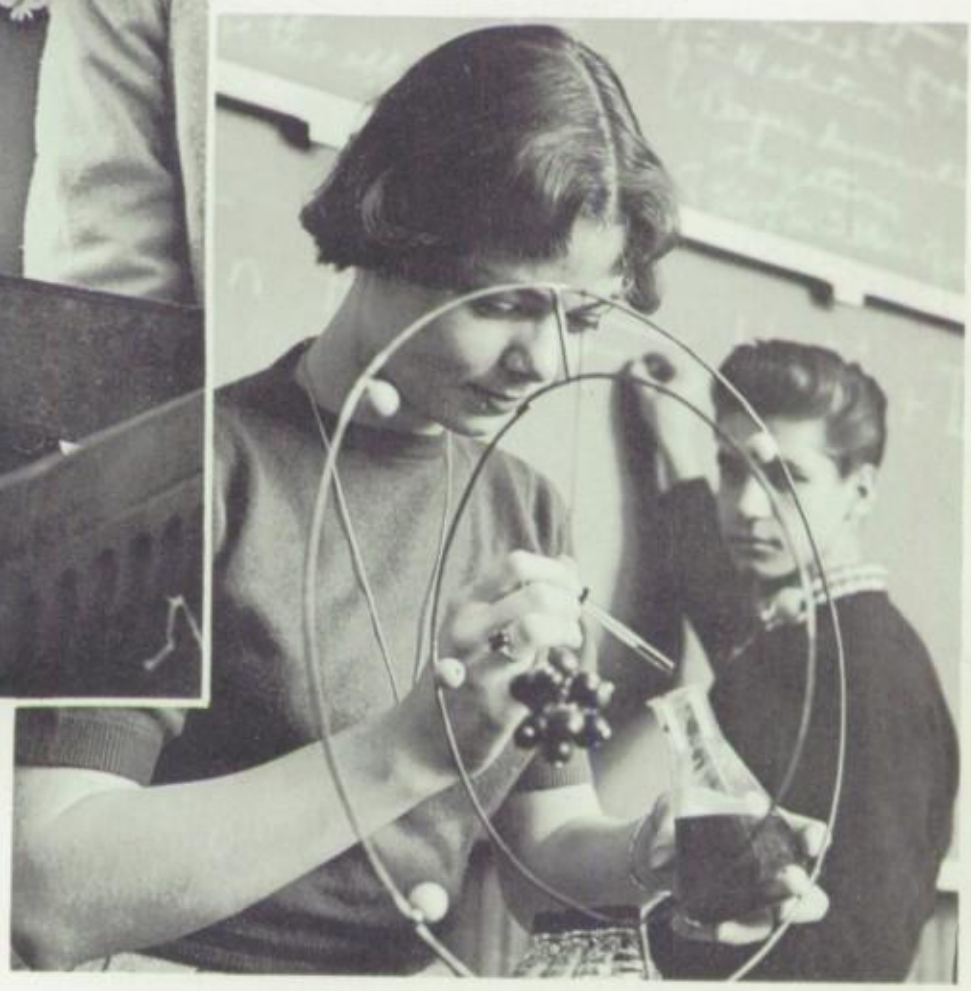
Developing artistic and practical skills is a large part of art and home economics instruction. In their art classes students study sketching, painting, lettering, ceramics, and pattern and design. Home economics classes emphasize cooking, meal planning, sewing, and numerous ways in which to make the home attractive. During an art period Arliss Neumann is seen putting the finishing touches on her mosaic. Linda Mayer gives a critical eye to her mobile as she begins assembling it. Bonnie Vanata perfects her sewing technique during a home economics class.

Adding a great deal to the study of biology are the many specimens and exhits found on display in the classrooms. Mr. Boyd, assisted by Bruce Jablonski, points out some of the principal features of the human skeleton.



provided an outlet for knowledge

Projects are an interesting and instructional feature of the science courses. Judy Mottl observes the antics of week-old chicks hatched in the school incubator by biology students.



In her chemistry class Jackie Patzelt gives a demonstration on indicators. Behind her Ed Manniko writes an accompanying formula on the blackboard.

Employing the use of a ruler and two mirrors, Sue Logan and Judy Ellingson perform an experiment for the members of their physics class.

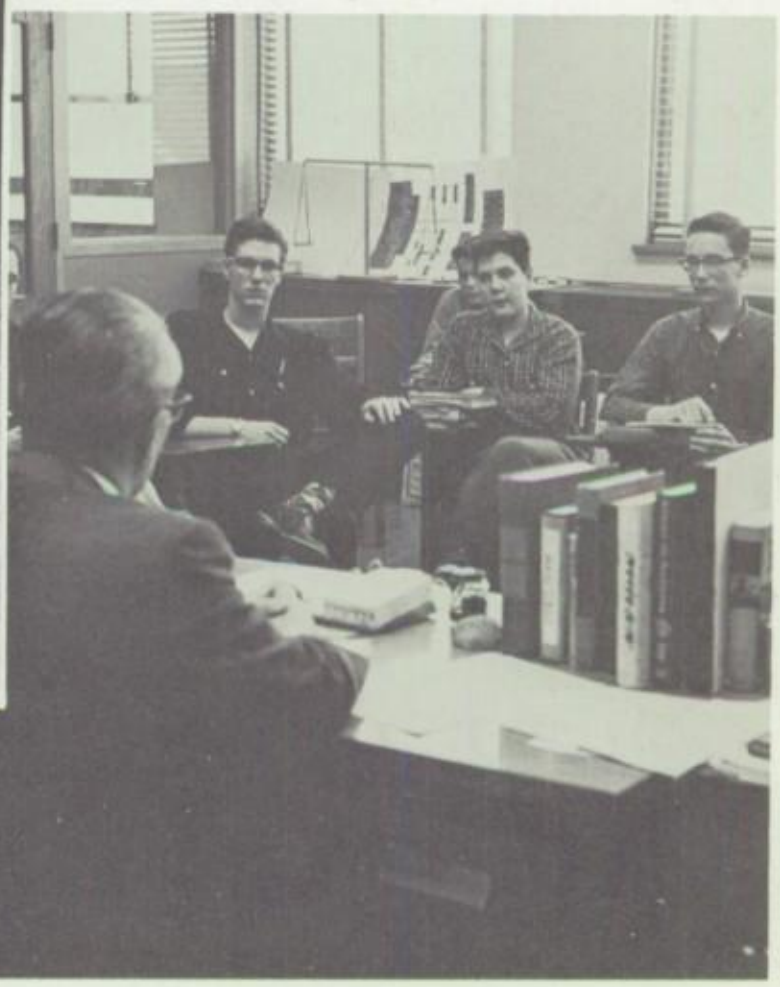
A variety of Combining their talents, many students work together in numerous vocal and instrumental groups. In the business department students prepare themselves for careers in the business world. Practicing for a performance of the string ensemble are Lynn Booster, Pat Karas, and Marilee Jory. Mr. Gilbert directs the members of the choir. With her fingers seeking out the proper letters on the keyboard, Mary Steffen concentrates on the typing exercise before her.

In addition to providing a background for learning, classrooms also serve as a place for friends to assemble and have the pleasure of one another's company. Enjoying themselves in a before-class jam session are band members, Dorothy Fogg and Chuck Vrhel.

courses formed full curriculum

A timid but excited Carol Valtman, under the watchful eye of driver training instructor Mr. Duval, takes the wheel for the first time and hesitantly maneuvers the car past the school.



The annual Career Conference is an event looked forward to by all R-B students. Lawyers of the future listen attentively as the legal profession is discussed.

During the Career Conference a group of girls hear a model elaborate on the many phases of her occupation and discuss its opportunities.

Special events

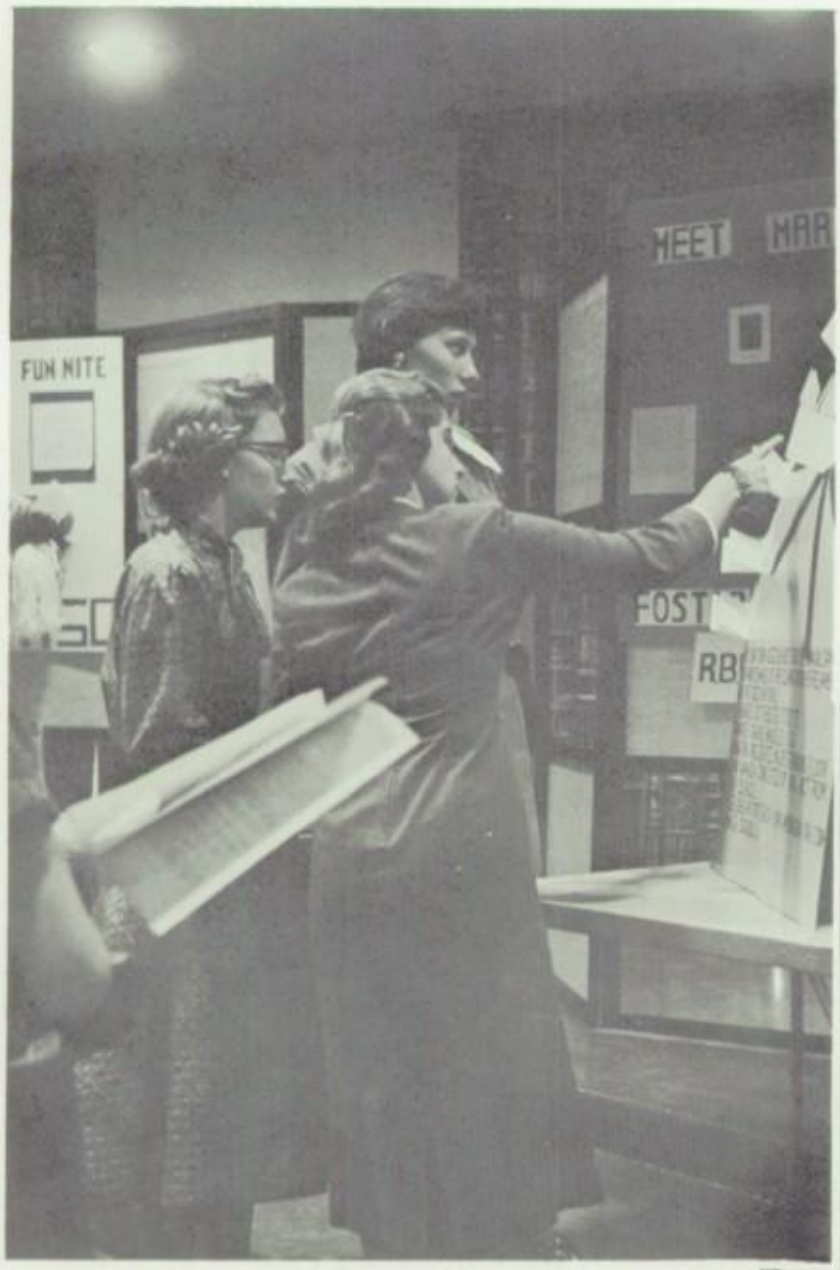
"Will the guides please come to the desk and receive instructions?" . . . meeting the many students of other schools.

Proud of the fact that their school was chosen as the NORTHEAST-NORTHWEST CONVENTION headquarters, R-B students eagerly participated in the project.

One of the most outstanding features was the informal campaigning with "anything from wild animals to motor vehicles."

At right, carrying posters and playing instruments, friends of John Jacoby campaign.

R-B gained prestige at convention



"Only five minutes to get to the auditorium" . . . "Now, what happened to the rest of our group?" . . . voting for the officers of next year.

After campaigning for their own candidates, the delegates, assembled in the auditorium. There they sat according to individual schools, each group having a sign, much like a political convention.

Another outstanding feature was the Hall of Ideas. Organized to present the projects of our neighboring schools, the councils displayed a variety of exhibits.

Queen Judy Maxant, Gail Glienke, and Sandy Mann.

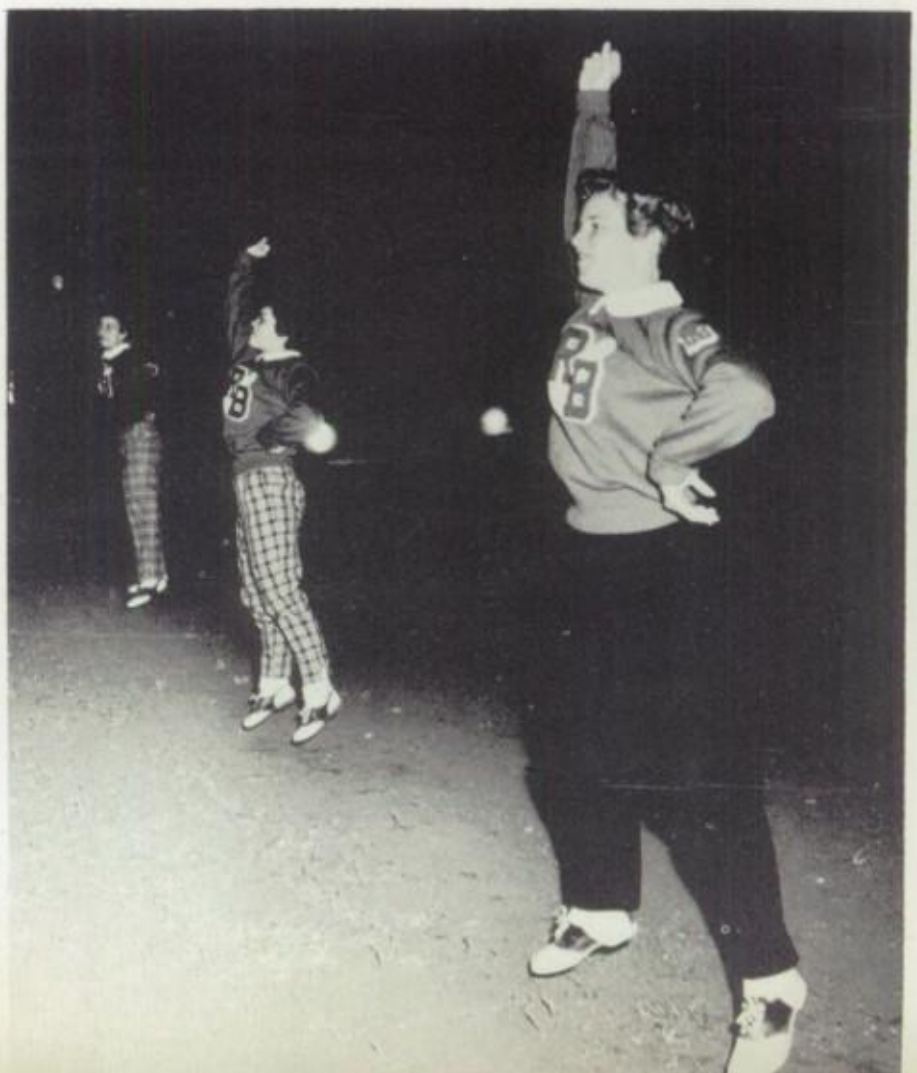
Queen's Ball climaxed weekend of Cheerleaders Marlene Skarda, Bonnie Majewski, and Sue Nerad lead the students and parents at the pep rally, before the lighting of the bonfire.

"Grab on to the snake" . . . the excitement and thrill as the Queen is crowned . . . "Beat York!" . . . the lingering memory of two glorious, fun-packed days.

The mere mention of HOMECOMING brings to mind fond memories of the unique, yet time-rendering floats in the parade Saturday morning, the snake dance, the wave of excitement and anticipation, and the warm glow of the crackling bonfire the previous night. The tears and laughter of happiness as the Queen was crowned and the dirt, smoke, and the fun around the fire were all a great part of it.

After R-B's Bulldogs tied York Township at the Homecoming game, during which R-B made several outstanding plays, the students gaily put the finishing touches on the decorations for the dance, "The Queen's Ball," which lent itself to an atmosphere of triumph, thus ending a glorious weekend.



These upperclassmen are piling the last of the wood for the bonfire. Later Pixie Beery-Polglase, Goodie Schotler and Sue McHugh work on the float for Sharclub's entry.

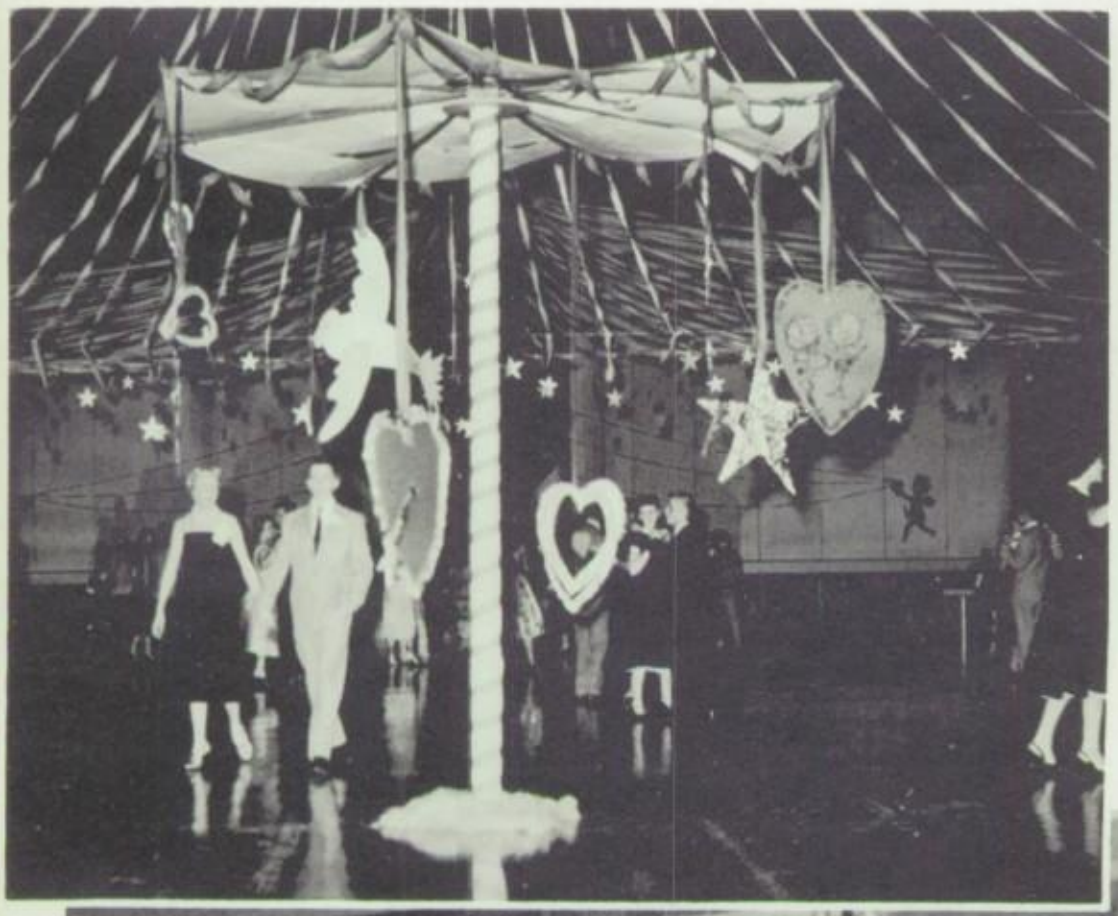
excitement, thrills, and loyalty

These five lovely ladies in all their radiance and splendor are Homecoming attendants Linda Kocour and Sandy Mann, Queen Judy Maxant, attendants Henrietta Bartizal, and Gail Glienke.

After hours

After hours — that important time when school was over — had numerous meanings. Amusing shocktail, hen, and bridge parties, laborious reference reading, buzzing telephone conversations, and original pizza concoctions represented activities in the home. Yet getting together with friends at Youth Center, basketball games, "Tops," and school dances were happy memories that will always be remembered.

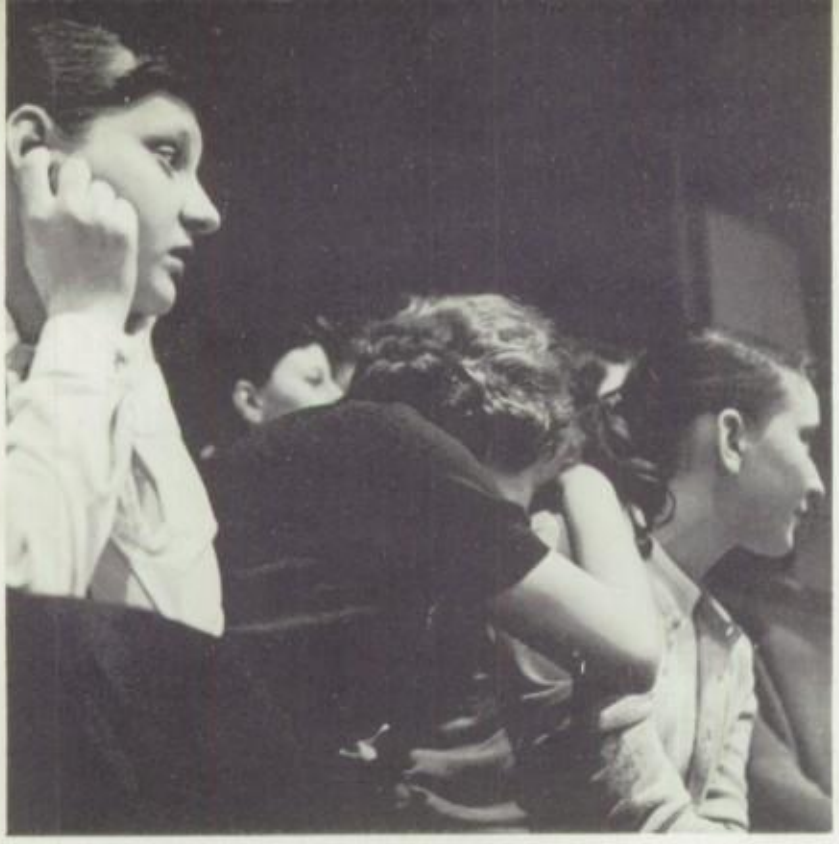
To end a perfect Valentine weekend, Mary Kratochvil and Jerry Kracht stroll past the brightly decorated merry-go-round at the Sharclub dance, "Little Bit of Heaven."



Julie Good, Sandy Kanak, and Harry Genant are among those who learned that everything was "Top Secret" at this dance, including where to find one's shoes.

Marilyn Polulach, Tom Roche, Sandy Jacobs, and Jan Macho enjoy the novel decoration at "Hawaiian Holiday," one of four School Council-sponsored dances.

Unique dances highlighted the year



R-B-ites enjoyed

Many emotions are revealed during a basketball game. The grim determination of the players and the hopeful expression of the faces of the coaches are evident. This pensive mood may change from expectation to exaltation, giving the game its interest. Beth Conklin fully expresses the tension that occurs when R-B is struggling for the ball. Finally regaining it, the team attempts a basket and scores.

Debbie Denniston and Roger Stedronsky "fraternize" during the election open house at Youth Center.

Like many other girls, Roberta Bublik in confronted with the problem of which formal to select for the Junior-Senior Prom.

Even in zero weather, Meg Palmer, Bonnie Burgess, Sandy Kanak, and Diane Pisha are tempted by an open convertible.

Get-togethers provided fun-hours

Cathy Beranich displays the typical position assumed during the telephone conversation.

Frankenstein provides a horrifying moment for Sally Svoboda, Peg Novak, and Marion Van Wagner, at a "Shock Tail" party.

Although the 1958 ROUSER signifies the termination of another school year, the spirit of R-B will continue to live in its people, may they be the administration, faculty, next year's students, or the graduating seniors.

To my dear friend Penny,

I'm so happy that we were in classes together this year and got to know each other well. I know that you will succeed in everything you attempt because of your faith and individuality. I've also come to know you as a wonderful person and one of my very best friends.

Lady

Best of success in everything you undertake, that is good!

Margo Monastier

Dear Penny
It's been a pleasure knowing you this year. I'll be sure to write you when I'm settled in D.C. & have a phone. Have a happy next year
Love, Lolly
Marie

Dearest Penelope,

I remember in 6th grade when I first saw you! I was so jealous, because Jeannie knew you & I didn't; but then came the day when we met! It seems so funny to think that 3 yrs. ago we didn't even know each other & now were "bestest" of friends! And of course we moments; on the night of a "certain" someone" talking to (as you would say) a handsome, we've had (as you would say) a handsome, over our precious puppies! I still say Tim's cuter! Let's leave it by saying Deutch is very handsome, and Tim is very cute. O.K.? I hope that P.B. will be good to you and give to you everything that you deserve. You're a wonderful girl & I love you,

Sincerely Diane

P.S. I sense I'll never be an artist

Dear Penny,

I have had a wonderful time this year and I know that you deserve most of the blame! You are one of my very best friends and one of the sweetest girls I know. Lots of luck with your summer job I know it will be a wonderful eppierience and a lot of work. You deserve the best and with your tremendous personality I know you'll get it.
